

a' an access means that is installed in each of said information processing means which is capable of performing addition and updating of said individual machine information, wherein each manufacturing machine is a tooling machine used in the industrial manufacturing facility for production.

---